firewalls palo alto The Palo Alto PA-3220 is a powerful mid-range firewall engineered to perform in the strictest of business environments. To begin, Palo Alto is known as one of the leaders in the network security industry, and their firewalls have garnered the respect of many IT professionals. In this article, we'll be taking a look at the PA-3220 and providing key information about its security features, specs, form factor, and price. Key Security and Connectivity Features Machine Learning-Powered Firewall Deep within the core of the PA-3220 is machine learning technology. This technology leverages a cloud-based machine learning process that delivers instant signatures and instructions back to the firewall. On top of that, there is behavior analysis to identify IoT devices and even make policy recommendations. Full 7 Layer Inspection The PA-3220 categorizes all applications on every port ALL THE TIME! This security feature uses the application and not the port as the framework for all safe enablement policy decisions. Unique Packet Networking with Single Pass Architecture Efficiency and performance is a strength for the Palo Alto PA-3220. In a single pass, networking, application, and signature matching is done. This means to the network and firewall is greatly reduces the amount of processing time and other actions needed for a speedy network environment.
