When you refine your mortgage, you are basically starting again with the mortgage process. Your new mortgage pays what's your old man, and you start making payments again on the new one. It is often advertised as a good thing, and while it can be for some homeowners, it can be a terrible move for many others. Everything is reduced to why you are refinancing and your unique situation. Here are some reasons why you should - and should not "do it and what to keep in mind if you do: there are probably more reasons not to refinance that there are to do it. Consolidate debt, for example, is a bad idea, especially if you have recurring problems with debt. Never put your home in a row for something like a credit card. If you were offered the opportunity to refinance at no cost, don't fall for it. The taxes involved in ensuring a mortgage and refinancing will be present somewhere, can simply be hidden. If you are planning to move over the next two years, your credit score is low or you cannot afford the closing costs, refinancing is a bad idea. And last but not least, never refinance something like a beautiful new car, a trip abroad or a whim to start a business. Search for other ways to finance these efforts. Now that you know when not to refinance, it's time to look at some reasons why it can actually be a good idea for some people. A lower interest rate is one of the main reasons to consider the move. Lenders say that if you can decrease the interest rate of at least one percent, think about refinancing. If you can decrease the interest rate of two percent or more, definitely refinance. You will build the equity in your house so and reduce monthly payments. If you invest or save the difference, it can be a great victory for your financial future. If you are not interested in monthly payments, you can try to guarantee a short-term loan instead. When you got your mortgage, your credit wasn't like that big, but you worked hard to fix it in recent years, and your score has risen a little. In many cases, your score higher, the lower interest rates, so that it may be worth revisiting your mortgage to see if the refinancing makes sense. This is one of the many reasons why it is important to stay at the top of your credit score. Many experts suggest to check it at least once a year if not frequently. Make sure you only make a soft survey when you check your score. Ask it to guarantee any credit or debt can actually lower the score. Many experts say you should not refinance to ensure a lower monthly payment, BUT if you can't afford the Mortgage as if, you can feel like you have no other choice. And this does not mean lowering monthly payments by ensuring a lower interest rate. In this case, you do it by adding to your mortgage so that it takes more time to pay. It also means that you will pay more interest, so actually costs you much long long money If you plan to stay in your current home for a long time, and you have an extreme circumstance, such as a medical condition that leaves you or your spouse unable to work, refinancing is not the best option, but it can make life a little easier. While these are some of the reasons why more common homeowners choose to refinance, there are a few others you can consider. They include: Converting a floating rate mortgage to a fixed rate mortgage through refinancing makes sense when interest rates are rising. When the value of the house increases, you can refinance and receive the difference if you opt for a cash-out refinance. As long as you save or invest money wisely, this makes sense in some circumstances. When you want to shorten the term of the loan and you are still able to make the monthly payment, you can choose to refinance if you can get a lower interest rate. Check the transmission sprocket to make sure it is not worn. Replace it if it shows wear. Sharpen the chain and replace it if it also shows damage. Also check the chain tension. Tighten if the chain is too loose, as well as any loose parts such as nuts, bolts or screws. If you need to sharpen the chain, refer to the instruction manual. You will also need to find out which format files to use on the chain.Check for any damage to the starter and cable. If the starter or cable is damaged, take the saw to a service centre. Check that the stop switch is working properly The saw motor should shut down immediately. Criminal Minds isn't exactly the kind of show known for its sweet moments, but it certainly does. One situation in particular has always been one of the favourites of the fans. Read on to learn more about the sweet moment involving Jennifer Jareau (A.J. Cook), her son Henry and Dr. Spencer Reid (Matthew Gray Gubler). Henry dresses as Dr. Spencer Reid for Halloween Matthew Gray Gubler | Cliff Lipson/CBS via Getty Images In Season 8, Episode 5, Henry chooses to dress as his favorite BAU agent for Halloween. The lovely baby looks just like Reid in his beautiful suitcase. She looks almost exactly like the one Reid wears usually and makes the viewers melt. "Excuse me, everyone, I have an announcement to make", JJ tells the team. "As some of you may know, Henry was a little nervous at the idea of trick-or-treating this year. But he decided to go anyway. "What made him change his mind?" asks David Rossi (Joe Mantegna) to JJ. "The BAU did it". JJ replies confidently. "I told him to go out on Halloween and try to figure out which monsters are real and which aren't". Henry becomes his favorite profiler. do the profiler?» Derek Morgan (Shemar Moore) asks JJ. But Henry doesn't just want to profile, he wants to be his favorite profiler. JJ says to everyone. Then she asks Henry to come in, and he does it while he looks like a realcopy of Reid. It has sporting a tie, a button-up sweater, and also khakis with a briefcase for the upper part. Spencer's more than a bit excited when he sees Henry looking so handsome. "Ya! Oh wow," Spencer exclaims. "You're great Henry." Reid helps Henry complete the Reid look then gives him his hanging document so he can complete his look. "It's official," says Morgan. Henry then tells Spencer: "E = Mc2!" Henry and Spencer five tall and things look good for a fun night out makeup or treatment. "Now should we go get some candy? Come on," JJ says how his son follows it. Everyone seems to be in great spirits after the moment of heart. "Beware of the back, boy," says Morgan Reid. Fans love the sweet moment and the bond that Reid has with Henry Reid is more than a bit content with the whole situation, and how could it not be? Henry decides to dress like him for Halloween. It is adorable and fans are definitely here for it. They've been close since Henry was born for the first time and it's sweet to see them interact. Fans love the dynamic between Reid and Henry. "I like the relationship between them!" explained a Reddit user. Reid was there when Henry was born and goes to show how deep their bond is. "Even I", another user accepted completely. "I especially liked the scene when he was born and Spence kept it." Henry practically won Halloween from a landslide. "Best Halloween costume Y.", wrote another Reddit user. "I yelled out loud, watching that," someone else said. Criminal Minds has a number of sweet moments just like this that make the show much more visible. During the fifteen seasons of the drama of psychological crime, Criminal Minds, there were some moments when a criminal passed the unit of behavioral analysis. But, in the end, our beloved BAU team has always taken their S.I. (unknown subject) as they like to call them. While all the team members were professional with their skills, who of them could be an incapable criminal mind? The same question was addressed to fans of the show on Reddit and there was some consensus. Thomas Gibson, Matthew Gray Gubler, Kirsten Vangsness, Joe Mantegna, Paget Brewster, Shemar Moore and A.J. Cook | Alexandra Wyman/WireImage Looper reports that Dr. Spencer Reid, the prodigal mind with a nuanced understanding of criminal psychology, interpreted by Matthew Gray Gubler in the show, was the winner of the survey with over 500 votes. A regular series from the beginning, Reid used his analytical skills and more PhD to benefit from BAU. For fifteen seasons he helped them capture more S.I. Some notables included the dangerous killer suffering from a split personality disorder, Tobias Hankel; cult leader Benjamin Cyrus; and the personal tormentor of Reid Cat Adams, interpreted by Aubrey Plaza. Many fans havestated that Reid would do the best S.I., hands down. "IA Reddit user also referred to a fictional article in which Reid becomes a serial killer and continues to work with the BAU. The fan reactions made it clear that Reid could be a great unsub if he wanted to. Following Reid, the most recurring names were Emily Prentiss, played by Paget Brewster and Aaron Hotchner, played by Thomas Gibson. While Prentiss was a calm and composed profiler, she was also fierce on the field. Her history with Interpol and her messed-up past with Ian Doyle, which forced her to go into hiding for some time, may contribute to her criminal skills.Some fans said she was "far enough away" from the team to continue her criminal case for a long time. "I think Prentiss is the only one who can kill someone in cold blood, a redhead, the user wrote. They also said she wouldn't get caught. Hotchner or Hotch, the poker-faced leader of the team, who eventually left the team to go into witness protection, was another name that came up several times among the fans. "I'm shocked that more people didn't say Hotch", wrote a Reddit user. Another argued with them saying Hotch was "too virtuous." One of the reasons Hotchner might not be a choice is that he had already made a choice in his life. During an interview with Vincent Perotta, an unsub who was abused as a child, Hotchner revealed to him that not all people who are abused as children become murderers. When Perotta pressed him for his statement, Hotchner said, "Some people grow up to take them." This made you think he might have already made the choice before his life. Since the show never mentioned it again, nobody knows if it was true. In addition to the three names, fans also tried to support Jason Gideon, one of BAU's veterans, Derek Morgan, the fascinating profiler, and Penelope Garcia, the team's geek and hacker. Although all these names have been knocked down by many. Some fans also asked why Agent Elle Greenaway's name was not included in the survey. Greenaway, one of the first members of the team, resigned when she started suffering from PTSD after an unsub shot her. Despite the clear winners of the poll, in the end many fans agreed that the BAU members would probably not cross over unless it was for a good cause. "I couldn't see most of the team doing this; it had to be for self-defense or some kind of vigilante thing", said one Reddit user.
