Aim: The aim of this experiment is to study, predict and quantify the acceleration of objects down an incline.How will you describe the cart’s motion as it goes down the inclined plane?Cart on an Incline. Theory: As a laboratory cart goes up or down an inclined plane, it will be under the influence of two primary forces – gravity and friction. ... As the cart moves uphill (below left), the component of gravity and the friction force are both acting against the motion.How does a cart accelerate as it moves down an inclined track in what direction is the acceleration?A cart on an incline will roll down the incline as it is pulled by gravity. The direction of the acceleration due to gravity is straight down as shown in the diagram. ... Neglecting friction, this is the acceleration of the cart.Why roller is used in the inclined plane experiment?Why roller is used in the inclined plane experiment? To increase the frictional force.What did Galileo conclude in his inclined plane experiments?Describe Galileo's experiments with inclined planes and state the conclusion. By observing the motion of objects on inclined planes, Galileo deduced that objects move with constant speed when no force acts on them. ... He observed that when a marble rolls down an inclined plane, its velocity increases, as shown in Fig.What did Galileo reason hypothesize about inclined planes?Galileo hypothesized that a falling object would gain equal amounts of velocity in equal amounts of time, which meant that its speed increased at a constant rate as it fell. ... Using a water clock, Galileo measured the time it took for the ball to roll a known distance down the inclined plane.What is the cart's speed at the bottom of the ramp?What is its final speed at the bottom of the ramp? The correct answer is 5.8 m/s.Inclined plane experiment lab report pdf Full PDF PackageDownload Full PDF PackageThis PaperA short summary of this paper13 Full PDFs related to this paperDownloadPDF Pack
